J. W. McCONNELL
Daly's Theater, Mon., Sept. 12th

To the people of Grand Rapids J. W. McConnell needs no introduction. He has appeared here many times in the past twelve years, in many plays and in many roles. He has played before audiences in Grand Rapids in the roles of young men, old men, lovers, villains, eccentric, low comedy and straight character parts. And at no time can one say that he did not play his part well. In the part of Mercutio in "Romeo and Juliet" which Mr. McConnell will play here on next Monday, Sept. 12, with The Associated Players Co. he will have ample opportunity to display his natural gifts of comedy portrayal.

Every one remembers with delight the comedy roles in which Mr. McConnell has appeared in here before. He seems to understand with keen intelligence, the kind of comedy that the audience enjoy. In other words he is a master of audience psychology and endeavors to present the character to the audience in a way that will be readily seen, understood and appreciated by them. Won Three Straight.

The Marion baseball team was here on Saturday, Sunday and Monday and played three games with the locals which resulted in three victories for the Grand Rapids team.

The game on Saturday was an easy one and the home boys won it without a struggle, the score being 8 to 1. It seems, however, that the visitors did not have all their best men with them the first day which accounted for the trimming that they got on that day.

Four more members of the team arrived for Sunday's game and the visitors took a brace and the score stood 1 to 0 at the end of the struggle.

On Monday the game was a repetition of the day before, the score being 1 to 0 in favor of the home boys, it requiring ten innings to settle the argument.

Those who saw the games say they were the best that have been played here this summer, things moving with a snap and vim unusual in an amateur game.

Foster pitched the Saturday and Sunday games, and Nash pitched the Monday game, the latter holding the visitors down to three hits.

New Form of Money Order.

Postmaster General Hitchcock has inaugurated a new system of issuing money orders, by which it is expected there will be a large saving to the postal department.

The new system will do away entirely with the "advice" method of issuing money orders. Under the old system a person purchased a money order for the "advice" had to be sent to the office for which the order was purchased and until it arrived the order could not be collected.

The new order similar to a check will be issued, which can be cashed anywhere and at any time. There will be no limit to the number of endorsements upon the back.

This system will be more convenient for the receiver of the order and a time and labor saver for the department. There will be no need of making out blanks and information cards to be forwarded to the destination. There will be no handling of large numbers of these blanks every day, nor the delays of looking them up before cashing an order when it comes into an office.

There will be hardly any change in color, except the new orders will be a deeper blue. They will be about the size of an ordinary check, though perhaps a little longer. Each will be accompanied by its receipt, as under the old system, to protect the purchaser against loss.

The new blanks have been received at the Milwaukee office and will be gradually put into service. The old blanks must be used up, according to the orders of the department. It is expected that the office will be working entirely under the system by Oct. 1.

Butter and Butter Substitutes.

The great majority of people eat butter and much prefer it to any of the substitutes which have been put upon the market. However a great many people must use a substitute on account of the high prices, which prevail during certain months of the year.

Oleomargarine is the most common substitute for butter and millions of pounds of this product are consumed each year. The difference in cost of production between oleomargarine and butter is so great that when butter is retailed at forty cents per pound, oleomargarine may be retailed at twenty cents per pound at as great a profit to the dealer.

The person who chooses to purchase the substitute should be allowed to do so and should be required to pay only the price of the substitute. The difference in price between the genuine product and the substitute is so great that dealers are tempted to sell the latter for the former. Only by requiring that the consumers may differentiate between the two articles can honest traffic in the substitute be insured.

This was contemplated by Congress when the present internal revenue tax of ten cents per pound was levied upon "artificially colored oleomargarine". Many people think that all oleomargarine is taxed ten cents per pound and is not a fact. Oleomargarine which is "artificially colored" so that the consumer cannot distinguish it from butter is the only oleomargarine that is thus taxed. When it is put upon the market in its natural color it is only taxed one-fourth of one cent per pound.

It is only when the product is made to look like butter so that it may be fraudulently sold as butter that a burdensome tax is imposed upon it. The tax is not a fact. Oleomargarine which is "artificially colored" so that the consumer cannot distinguish it from butter is the only oleomargarine that is thus taxed. When it is put upon the market in its natural color it is only taxed one-fourth of one cent per pound.

LAFOLLETTE CARRIES EVERYTHING WITH HIM

Robert M. LaFollette swept the state of Wisconsin yesterday by a majority of a hundred thousand, over Samuel A. Cook, for the office of U. S. Senator.

In Wood County LaFollette has a majority estimated at 1000.

For the office of Governor on the Republican ticket, both the McGovern and Fairchild forces claim a victory, altho the race is a close one. The indications are that Fairchild carried the County of Wood by a small plurality.

In this county at this writing Humbrecht is ahead of his opponent Morse by about 250 majority, altho the reports from other parts of the district give the nomination to Morse.

Kileen is reported to be about 150 ahead in the County for state senator and is reported to be nominated in the district.

P. F. Bean for member of assembly has a lead of about 250 over P. O. Wintner, with several voting precincts to hear from.

Briere has a lead of between five and six hundred over J. W. Cochran for the office of district attorney, with several precincts to hear from that will not change the result to any extent.

The race between Brooks, Cowell and Thompson is a close one and will probably not be decided until all the returns are in.

On the democratic ticket Chas. H. Wiesse was nominated

THE DANGEROUS HOUSE FLY.

The city department of public health gives a timely and needed warning to those leaving the city for their vacations to avoid places where there are many flies. These who follow this advice will avoid places which are unclean, which allow food and garbage to be so exposed as to attract and feed the flies, says the Philadelphia Press. They will avoid places where stables and dwellings are in near vicinity, at the exposed manure in the choice breeding place of thousands and even millions of flies. In other words, to avoid disease-carrying flies avoid places where they permit to breed and feed. Formerly the conditions which multiply flies and the flies themselves were considered as objectionable but endurable. Now the patient tolerance of flies is known to be a heinous trifling with the health and life of human beings. Flies are germs for the most part innocuous to man, until through some convenient medium they are conveyed to his system. This purveyor of disease in the fly. His guilt has been proved to a demonstration. His capacity for carrying on his feet from foul and putrescent sources the bacteria of disease has been recorded by gelatin plates on which he has been made to alight and have proven his guilt.

The rabid growers of Fresno county, California, are trying to promote the consumption of rabbits by establishing "rabbit day," on which all patrons who believe in patronizing home enterprises and consuming home productions are expected to indulge in rabbit cakes and puddings, rabbit bread, etc. The boys and girls will fill in line for this, and as they are the best consumers of things sweet, it would seem to be good policy to weaken the enthusiasm of young eaters. Parents are now busy striving to get enough of things more staple than rabbits, which would be made to take the place of meat, eggs and other products. Moreover, it is suspected that if all were to do as the rabid growers desire there would be a boom in the price as a result of the boom in the demand.

Smokers who are going to France should know that, now the French duties on tobacco and cigars have been increased, travelers entering France are allowed to bring into the country free of duty only ten cigars, 20 cigar boxes, or 14 ounces of tobacco, and this must be on their person, or in their hand luggage examined at the frontier. The customs officials are fully entitled to confiscate or tax any quantity of tobacco or cigars however small which may be found in the heavy luggage of passengers sent into the country to a terminal station (St. Lazare or Gare du Nord) and examined there, and just now they are very strict.

The British commercial attaché at Yokohama reports that there has been a sudden development in Tokyo and Yokohama in the use of solid rubber shoes for Japanese, and the adoption of the new shoe promises to become general in Japan. The utilization of rubber and its products for every conceivable purpose is so rapidly swelling the demand that there will have to be a corresponding augmentation of the annual crop or prices will be bound to prohibitive heights. The world will shower wealth on the inventor who produces an artificial rubber that will give service approaching that of the genuine article.

Misfortune seems to follow the Zepplins. Hard upon the recent disasters to several of the flying machines come the explosions in the works at Friedrichshafen, resulting in serious damage to property and the death of one man and the injury of a number of others. Still, German determination is of the boldest order, and it is quite likely that there will be persistent effort toward perfecting the Zepplin principle to the point where present perils will be minimized.

MULFORD IS VICTOR

PILOT OF LOZIER DRIVES AT ELGIN MOST SPECTACULAR AUTO RACE.

ONLY FOUR CROSS THE TAPE

Livingstone Is Second, Greiner Third—Winner Averages 62.5 Miles an Hour, Comes Close to Vanderbilt Cup Contest Time.

Elgin, Ill. Ralph Mulford, driving a Lozier car, won the Elgin national trophy in a race of 305.03 miles Saturday at an average speed of 62.5 miles an hour before a crowd of 100,000 people. His driving was of the spectacular kind and when he finished he was cheered for forty-five minutes.

Thirty-three other drivers entered the rough course of country roads a course of eight miles 2,499 feet, or roughly, eight and one-half miles with but a single stop.

The remarkable feature of Mulford's run lies in the fact that he approached within three-tenths of a mile the maximum average in the classic Vanderbilt cup event of a year ago. That such a run could be made on country roads, with practically no preparation and for a much greater distance than that of the Vanderbilt cup race, is looked upon by experts as little short of marvelous.

Closely behind the victorious Lozier was "Al" Livingstone, driver of a National, who broke another record in that his time was 64 miles an hour, and one car in two successive races ran more than a mile a minute, in the first of which he was victor, and totaling more than 500 miles. Livingstone's record as second at the goal was 60.2 miles an hour for the entire run of 305.03 miles.

This third man, another driver of a National, was A. W. Greiner. His average time was 64 miles an hour, and he was below those of the other two winners because of numerous stops for repairs and gasoline.

In addition to the numerous unexpected obstacles that were met in full view of the great throng of motorists, demanding quick handling of cars and quick work on the part of the pilots, Livingstone was annoyed by a danger of which none were his match—rain and lightning.

Only four machines crossed the tape before the judges' stand the required number of times. All of the others, except two—other machines or men—met with accidents that threw them out of the running before the entire distance had been covered.

FIVE BULLETS MISS MARK

Victim of Attack Ends Life of Would-Be Assassin, Who Was Dismissed for Firing on Man at Duluth, Minn.

St. Paul, Minn.—Alfred G. Ray, chief special agent of the Great Northern railway, Tuesday shot and killed Charles P. Welsh, a former substation in the Great Northern office building at St. Paul after Welsh had fired five shots at Ray.

Welsh was about 45 years old and had been dismissed by Ray about two months ago for shooting a man at Duluth. Since that time Welsh had been expressing vindictive feelings to Ray.

Welsh met Special Officer John Lane of the Great Northern railway at the headquarters building and began to revile Ray, saying he would "kill" him.

Lane told Welsh to keep quiet, as he would not allow Welsh to speak disrespectfully of his superior officer, whereupon Welsh turned his wrathful utterances against Lane, saying he would "kill" him.

Before Ray appeared at his office Welsh walked in and inquired of Chief Clerk Hess if there was any mail. On being told there was nothing for him, Welsh said he would return in a day or two.

Shortly after Welsh returned, as soon as he opened the door he drew a revolver from his pocket and began to fire at Ray. At the fifth shot Ray succeeded in getting his weapon into action and with one shot killed Welsh.

COOK AFTER POLE RECORDS

EXPLORER AGAIN MAKING DASH FOR FROZEN NORTH.

Goes in Search of Papers and Instruments Which He Says Will Exonerate Him.

Copenhagen, Denmark.—Dr. Fredrick A. Cook, discredited in the eyes of the world by the findings of the University of Copenhagen in regard to the explorer's claim of having reached the north pole, again is on his way to the top of the world.

From Goodhays, Greenland, there came a letter which establishes an apparently beyond doubt that the Brooklyn surgeon is making his way northward in the effort to find records and instruments he is said to have left in the frozen north.

By these records and instruments Doctor Cook hopes to establish his contention that he was at the north pole a year ahead of Commander Robert E. Peary.

It is stated in the letter that the Brooklyn man has expressed himself as confident of being able to convince the world he is entitled to full credit as the original discoverer of the pole and to force the scientists at the University of Copenhagen to reverse their adverse decision.

In this respect the writer of the letter asserts that among the residents of Greenland there exists the belief that every claim made by Doctor Cook in connection with his dash northward is based upon fact and that the explorer will be enabled in time to prove.

An American stranger bound southward recently dropped anchor in Goodhays harbor, says the letter, and from the captain and crew was obtained further confirmation of the report that Doctor Cook had started a second dash northward with the object of obtaining the proof which he expects will set him right before the world.

TAFT PLEADS FOR HARMONY

In Campaign Letter He Applauds Work of Congress and Tells Plan of Fixing Tariff.

New York.—President Taft's keynote letter addressed to William H. McKinley of Illinois, chairman of the Republican congressional committee, and was given out by the New York headquarters of the committee.

In the letter, the president defends the Payne tariff law, but acknowledges that there are parts of it which may be amenable to change.

His plan for getting at the inequalities of the law is investigation by the tariff commission, and then revision by individual schedules. He thinks that by this means the statute may be adjusted properly without causing uneasiness in the business world.

"It seems to me," says Mr. Taft, "that all Republicans—conservative, progressive and radical—may well be of the opinion that with respect to the tariff and customs laws, being amended shall justify changes in the rates."

The letter is a straight from the shoulder defense of his administration and of the congress that aided him in the formation of the laws recently passed. These are termed the most progressive legislation in history.

Mr. Taft pleads for harmony in the Republican party and urges all factions to drop their differences and get together for defense against the common enemy. If this is not done, he says, the only alternative is Democratic success in the congressional campaign this fall, and he points to the difficulties which would be attendant upon an administration handicapped by an opposing legislative branch in its efforts to further redeem the pledges of its platform.

The president admits there are other promises to keep, but at the same time he asserts that the party has gone far in good under his guidance.

On the other hand, the president declares that the present tariff, in conjunction with other economies, has turned a deficit of $58,000,000 into a surplus of $26,000,000 in a little over a year's time.

Col. Roosevelt Is Snubbed. Milwaukee.—In view of the unbecomingly unfair position that Mr. Roosevelt has taken in the discussion of the movement for which I have spent all my spare time and energy, it is impossible for me to accept the intended honor.

AND THIS ECONOMY!

Nothing Was Said About Rubber in New Famous Wisconsin Statute.

Over at the back of the new tariff law under Schedule N, Schedule N, if you look carefully you will find the following little item:

"Manufacturers of bone, chip, glue, horn, quills, India rubber, palm leaf straw, weeds and what have you, not specially provided for in this section, 25 per cent ad valorem."

Under the Dingley law the duty was 20 per cent. The house retained that rate, but in conference it was increased to 25 per cent.

Now, if you will turn to those as "imports," "prepared under direction of the senate finance committee." Mr. Aldrich's committee, which President Taft used in his Wisconsin speech to prove that duties had been advanced hardly at all on articles that entered largely into common consumption, you will find that manufacturers of rubber were quite overlooked.

Under Schedule N the estimates say that the duty was reduced on bituminous coal, which is consumed to the extent of a billion dollars a year, and on books and gloves, of which three hundred million dollars' worth are consumed annually, that duties were increased on fireworks, which are used to the amount of two million dollars yearly, but there isn't a word about manufacturers of rubber.

You would conclude, probably, that manufacturers of rubber constituted so trivial an item that they were not worth mentioning; that they were about equal in importance to manufacturers of horn, quills, palm leaf straw, weeds and what have you, which they are bracketed in the bill.

Nevertheless, as reported last week about a hundred million dollars' worth of crude India rubber. Hence the manufacturers must amount to several times that rather odd little sum. (The only Senator Aldrich has discovered that rubber is not the negligible item he thought it was when he raised the duty on it. He has been elected director of a rubber company Saturday Evening Post.)

Mr. Hollinger's view on conservation is of importance because he is Secretary of the Interior. At the same time his office requires of him a certain personal dignity. By devoting his time to the platform to violent abuse of his office he neither helps the cause of conservation nor his desire, nor adds to the popularity of the administration, which has stood by him in his troubles with self-sacrificing loyalty. His conduct is best explained by the conviction that he has not much longer to stay.

That "Philippine Ruin" Dodge. The apprehensions of "Conservative" penitentiary statesmanship concerning the "ruin" to the tobacco in view of the "Conservative" valley, which was surely to follow if Philippine cigars were admitted free of duty, must be supposed to be considerably allayed, since it appears that in the first year of free Philippine cigars to the extent of 150,000,000 only 80,000,000, or but a fraction over half the number permitted were sent to this country.

In other words, as the New York Sun puts it, "the horde of underpaid workmen" had been unable to find a market here for so much "pungent labor tobacco" as it would have been allowed to introduce duty free. Even if the whole 150,000,000 free cigars had come in, the amount would have been no more than a "drop in the bucket"—in other words, a practically negligible quantity in comparison with the vast total of domestic cigars consumed here. Yet to bend off "truth" like the "Conservative" penitentiary statesmanship—when it wasn't planning to circumvent some country postmaster who had gone wrong politically—was worrying over the purely imaginary interests of a few tobacco farmers, and never lifting its eyes to sweep that broader horizon in which was plainly to be seen a national duty to give a measure of fair play to a people who had been incorporated under the flag—a duty the neglect of which meant national dishonor and an offense against justice and morality—Stamford (Conn.) Advocate.

Country Not to be Deceived. Mr. Aldrich says the tariff has not caused the rise in rubber prices. That will not be believed. He says that the demand for rubber has increased while the supply has decreased, yet in another part of his letter he says that his country is producing millions of pounds of crude rubber from entirely new sources.

The truth is that Mr. Bristow turned the light on a man of dictatorial authority at the head of Congress deliberately manipulating the tariff on behalf of his friends, himself and his son. This exposure has interrupted the proceedings to make one all-comprehensive rubber trust, but there can be no doubt that such a design was under way.

Meanwhile, the country is not going to believe that the Aldrich crude rubber company has not had its share of profits out of the enormous increase in the prices of rubber goods caused by the increase in the tariff.

Are Jealous of Foreigners. Germany's students are jealous of foreigners, and are endeavoring to shut them out of the universities.

TAFT PLEADS

Centennial Celebration of Mexico

By G. PIQUETTE MITCHELL

IT IS indeed fitting that under the able administration of that Grand Old Man of Mexico, Don Porfirio Diaz, Mexico should celebrate her centennial of independence and her early struggles for freedom and liberty. He, whose forceful military policy, whose familiarity with the pulse of his people, and whose consummate statesmanship have given his country a sound government and placed her on a financial and commercial footing with the old world, will preside as chief executive over the commemoration of the man and events which made it possible for Mexico to reach the present high state of civilization which she enjoys.

As the human sacrifices of the Aztec king, Montezuma, gave way to the bloodless offerings on the altar of the Fair God who forbade the coming of the Spanish conquerors, so the spirit of independence finally subdued the successors of Cortes and his hardy band.

The law which excluded Spaniards born in Mexico from equal rights with those who were immigrants and the consequent repugnance and jealousy which arose between the two parties, together with the alienation of the clergy, and the removal of their influence in the enforcement of government decrees, which necessitated the use of more forcible measures, the granting of controversial monopolies, and the severity exercised in dealing with cases of treason, all worked to the establishment of a feeling of discontent and the growth of revolutionary sentiments.

But it was left to one of the clergy, a priest of the city of Dolores, Father Miguel Hidalgo, to give these sentiments outward expression and to take the flag of rebellion against the mother country. Father Hidalgo was the second son of Cristobal Hidalgo y Costilla and Ana Maria de Gallegos, and was born on the Hacienda Corralejo in the state of Guanajuato on the eighth of May, 1753. His early years were spent on the farm of which his father was the manager. As he grew older he pursued his studies of philosophy and theology at the College of San Ildefonso, and about 1778 he came to Mexico City to receive the sacred orders and the degree of bachelor of theology. He served as pastor of various parishes, and on the death of an older brother was transferred to the City of Dolores, where he worked for the enlightenment of his people in the arts and sciences and the encouragement of agricultural and industrial pursuits. He first introduced in that district the cultivation of the grape and the planting of mulberry trees for the breeding of the silkworm. He, moreover, established a tannery and a brickyard and constructed a tannery and other commercial institutions. All this, together with his generosity, made him much beloved by his parishioners and especially the Indians, whose language he was familiar with. Being fond of music, he taught them to play and formed an orchestra among them, giving all his energy to the greater civilization and progress of his country.

In 1808 there was formed in Valladolid a conspiracy which had for its object the assembling in Mexico City of a congress to govern New Spain in the name of Ferdinand VII. In the event that the mother country should fall to the arms of the French, which without serious intention might probably lead to the independence of the country. The uprising was planned to take place on December 21, but being discovered, all the conspirators were imprisoned. However, there being but little evidence against them, they were soon given their liberty.

The conspiracy being suppressed in Valladolid, spring up in Queretaro with renewed strength. Here it received protection from the corregidor, or mayor, of that city, who furnished money permits, pending the time when action would be no longer necessary. At this time Hidalgo became enlisted in the cause of the conspiracy, but it is not known by what motives he was influenced. He had had numerous discussions with his friend, Ignacio Allende, regarding independence, but with no more serious object on his part than pure argument and without thought of taking any active part in the movement. Allende, however, was quick to interest himself in the cause, although warned by Hidalgo that the originators of such enterprises seldom enjoyed the fruits of them. But in the month of September, 1810, Hidalgo received a letter from Allende at Queretaro asking him to come to that city on a matter of much importance. He went, but was little impressed by the people he met, as they were without resources and of small importance, and he returned to his home somewhat disgusted with his visit. However, another letter from Allende pictured the state of affairs in such encouraging words that he decided to give his time and energy to the cause. He had made in the town 25 janeros and placed himself in communication with the drum major and two sergeants of the battalion of Guanajuato in order that they might secure some troops for the revolution. His efforts, considering the short time which he had, were most successful, but, unfortunately, the conspiracy reached the ears of the authorities and many were imprisoned. Hidalgo soon immediately for Allende, who arrived in Dolores on the night of September 14, and the whole of the next day was spent in conferences without any decision being reached as to the best course to pursue.

Meanwhile Josefa Ortiz, the wife of the corregidor of Queretaro, being an ardent believer in the revolutionary movement, sent a messenger to the town of San Miguel de Grandero that Allende should be informed of the news. Not finding Allende, who had been summoned by Hidalgo, the message was delivered to another conspirator by the name of Aldama, who left immediately for Dolores, arriving there at two o'clock in the morning of the sixteenth, he found everybody asleep in the house of the priest, but awakening Allende, both sought the room of Hidalgo, who immediately arose and exclaimed: "Gentlemen, we are lost; there is now no other recourse but to attack the Spaniards." To which Allende replied: "Well, what are you going to do?" For the love of God, what is to be done?" After this several hours were spent in vain discussion. Hidalgo now showed his greatness. He did not think of flight, although on account of his sacred profession he could easily have found safety. But he preferred to fight for his principles and his convictions. Knowing full well that his companions were in prison and the threat of the revolution had been snuffed, without troops, without arms, he preferred to face almost certain death, remembering his warning to Allende, that seldom the originators of such enterprises enjoyed the fruits of their efforts.

Hidalgo, then, with his brother, Allende, Aldama and eleven other men left his house fully armed and proceeded to the jail, and, threatening the mayor with his pistol, demanded the release of his fellow-conspirators. His demands having been complied with, he now had 80 men, whom he armed with the swords of the soldiers of the regiment of the queen, which were delivered to Sergeant Martinez.

It was Sunday and earlier than the usual hour for mass. Hidalgo, however, summoned the people of the town and the farmers from the surrounding country, from whom he secured by his eloquent words about 200 followers. A march was made to Rincon, which was taken without resistance, and many Spaniards were made prisoners. Then proceeding to San Miguel de Grandero, he surprised the garrison and obtained arms and money. Meanwhile his ranks with people of all classes, principally Indians with machetes. He had found at one place an image of the Virgin of Guadalupe, which was attached to a lance and borne aloft as the future banner of the revolution, while the battle cry became "Long live the Virgin of Guadalupe and death to the Spaniards!" And yearly General Diaz gives this "grito" at eleven o'clock on the night of September 15, as he stands with his venerable head bowed and rings the great bell of the National palace, to the enthusiastic applause of his people gathered in dense throngs in the public square, or zocalo.

On September 21 the insurgents marched through Chamacero and entered Colima, sacking the houses of the Spaniards and securing such money and arms as they could lay their hands on. Here Hidalgo was proclaimed general by a congress of the people, and Allende was placed second in command.

Hidalgo then set out for Guanajuato with about 500 men, and when he reached the city he found that the Spaniards had taken refuge in a large and strong building which had been used as a granary. Here the royalists had brought the government treasury and their private wealth, fortifying themselves as best they could. After a bloody conflict the place was finally stormed and taken and most of its deficiencies in sense and reason, while age makes good the withered textures and faded colors by a philosophical temper and a sense of humor. Yes, youth trends the earth proudly as one who masters environment, and instinctively we, who have lived and failed much, fall into the background conscious of being tarnished by overwork. We listen awestruck while they explain world tendencies to us. They look upon us with a certain tender pity, and wonder what interests life can possibly have to offer one who has reached the decrepit age of forty-five. Despite this seeming absorption in themselves, these young folk have hardly imagination enough to understand that they are as deeply interested in what they do and leave undone as once we were in our own activities. A young girl who was solicitous as to her mother's power of enduring existence with gray hair and faded charms was much taken back by this view of the matter; and when her mother assured her that she took more vital interest in her daughter's career than she had ever done in her own because of the ampler experience years had given, the child was quite overawed; but for her own part she hoped to die at thirty because by that time everything interesting would have happened.—Harper's Weekly.

wagons and the setting fire to the fields in their front, compelled the insurgents to retreat in great disorder. This was the beginning of the end of the brilliant career of Hidalgo. He fled with other insurgents northward and surrendered his command to Allende. At Saltillo it was decided to flee to the United States and to enlist the sympathy of this rising republic. But on the way they fell into an ambush planned in the interest of a counter revolution by a discontented revolutionary colonel by the name of Bilonzo. Hidalgo and Allende were captured, tried and condemned to death.

Allende being shot as a traitor on May 26, 1811, and Hidalgo on July 31. And thus perished a noble and brave man, Mexico's first and greatest champion of liberty.

To celebrate these stirring events of one hundred years ago, instead of erecting temporary exhibition buildings at great cost, the money will be used to permanent improvements throughout the republic.

The program for September in the capital city will include the dedication of many new public buildings, monuments and parks, a great civic and military parade, a historical pageant, fireworks displays, balls, garden parties, free theatrical performances, and many other features. To assist in her centennial celebration, Mexico invited all of the nations of the world with whom diplomatic relations are maintained. The response was hearty and sincere, most of the gay and light words in submitting repair bills to the Illinois Central railroad car repair works.

The witness said that in making out padded bills against the Illinois Central he had on file a list of numbers of railroad cars.

"Did the Ostermann company ever depart from the car repair works?" asked Attorney Walter L. Fisher for the prosecution.

"Yes," the witness replied, "but they were never referred to."

"Under whose orders?"

"Henry C. Ostermann," replied Polly.

"Were there any records in the office of the company whereby the actual work done on the cars was shown?"

"Yes," the witness replied, "but they were never referred to."

ACCUSED OF BRIBERY

LAWYER ARRAIGNS FORMER AMBASSADOR BEFORE BAR ASSOCIATION.

DEMANDS HE BE OUSTED

Choate is Charged With Being Guilty of the Violation of the Constitution of the American Bar Association and Unprofessional Conduct.

Chattanooga, Charges that Joseph H. Choate of New York, former ambassador from the United States to Great Britain has been guilty of the violation of the constitution of the American Bar association in failure to uphold the honor of the profession of the law and a petition that he be expelled from the association were presented to the American Bar association and referred to the committee on grievances.

The charges allege Mr. Choate has violated the confidence of his clients, James R. Watts and wife, that he has violated the canons of ethics of the American Bar association, has been guilty of divers and many of the charges of bribery, and has brought dishonor and disgrace upon the American Bar association.

The first charge has to do with certain litigation introduced to Mr. Choate and his associates. It is alleged that the Western guarantee to Watts certain price for coal and that the contract was worth about $50,000. It is alleged that Mr. Choate, in violation of his contract, had received and left Watts in a precarious business situation. In 1885 Watts engaged the Choate firm to bring suit for $2,000. The petition alleges that Choate and his associates had been paid for their services by Watts in the office of Mr. Choate and overheard by accident a conversation between Mr. Choate and an attorney, in which this attorney offered Choate's "trial attorney" $50,000 to compromise the case. Mr. Watts now says in his petition that he believes his lawsuit was "sold out, or thrown away." Only nominal damages were granted, the sum being 6 cents.

Mr. Choate is also taxed with the alleged failure of his trial attorney to collect for about $1,000 collected by a receiver for the sale of certain business.

It was 1 A. M. when a Chicago room boy, who was probably fatally injured in an automobile accident near the Northwestern depot, Mr. Cashman left a street car parked behind the car and started on a run for the depot in order to reach a train. He failed to see a large automobile of Frank K. Hill's, president of the J. I. Case Trashing Machine company, driven by James Southall. He was knocked down and the machine passed over him. Frank K. Hill, a motorist of the Milwaukee Electric railway, was struck and knocked down and run over by automobile No. 11-38, as he stepped off his car. His right hand was crushed and the rear wheels of the auto passed across his right leg, crushing it badly.

Stevens Point An express robbery has come to light here, but officials are silent about the amount stolen. A J. Everett, route-agent, and two detectives have been here since and a suspected party is under surveillance. The money and valuables taken were in packages, billed from various points along the Portage branch of the Soo line, containing bank and railway agents' remittances and jewelers' packages en route to the larger cities. These remittances are usually deposited in a safe in the transfer office from 8 p. m. to 2:30 a. m., waiting train connections on the main line.

Taylor, a Kenosha attorney, to three checks, the work being so expert that one was cashed over the counter of a bank with which Mr. Taylor had an account. The forgeries were discovered when the canceled checks were returned to Mr. Taylor.

The doctor and his wife attempted to change places in the boat when they lost their balance. The doctor managed to grab the boat and saved himself, but his wife sank. The doctor tried to locate her by diving, but was unable to do so. Adam Reidelback finally succeeded in locating the body, but every effort for resuscitation failed.

One of Life's Problems.

It is often more difficult to forget than it is to remember.

Her Husband.

It is said that before a man has discovered the color of a girl's eyes she is planning her trousseau and leading him to the altar—but—

The bachelor girls' destination headquarters through Woodhewer's, a portion of the city they had never before visited. They stopped for a long time on the bridge which crosses the lake to admire the wonderfully well kept banks, which slope down to the edge of the lake, with here and there some artistically arranged shrubbery serving as a back ground. As they came to a last look at the lake, which is so tiny one wonders how the large willow tree standing at the water's edge, with its drooping branches hanging so low that they sweep backward and forward in the water with the wind, could possibly have grown there, one of the bachelor girls was heard to remark to her companion, "Wouldn't this be an ideal place to bury one's husbands and come and weep over their graves?"—New York Press.

Minstrelsy in Boston.

"Mistah Howfjames, may I ask yo' to point out de distinction 'tween a Roman stoic philosopher and a materialist in lofty and impressive style of some great historical event, de same being a part of de scholastic co'se prescribed in our institutions of learning?"

"No, Mr. Tieklovell; I confess my inability to discern the points of differentiation. Will you set forth why a gorically the reason or should not a Roman stoic philosopher be considered a materialist in lofty and impressive style of some great historical event, de same being a part of de scholastic co'se prescribed in our institutions of learning?"

"Yes, sub; de one am Epictetus, an' do uddan am an epic taught us."

"Ladies and gentlemen, I have the pleasure of announcing that the renowned scholar and essayist, Professor Wendell Osgoodson, will recite at this stage of the proceedings his celebrated monologue on 'The Apotheosis of the Epictetus!'"—Chicago Tribune.

Two Battles.

Porfirio Diaz gained national prominence and won his spurs at the battle of Puebla, where the Liberal forces made a gallant but ineffectual stand against the French, who had invaded Mexico for the purpose of erecting a throne for Maximilian. Notwithstanding the fact that the Mexican forces were defeated, their deed was so gallant that superior commanders have against the anniversary of the battle of the 5th of May became a national holiday in Mexico.

A brusque American once asked Diaz, "Why do you Mexicans celebrate a defeat when you know that the French took Puebla?"

Resplendent Diaz with a twinkle in his eye, replied: "Perhaps we have imitated the Americans even to the extent of celebrating our defeats, for I have been told that the British defeated the colonists at Bunker Hill, and yet you built a monument to commemorate the event."

Danger of Poor Teeth.

Just what effect on the stomach is produced by the constant swallowing bacteria and pus from diseased teeth, mingled with decomposing particles of food, we are unable to determine, but it is reasonable to suppose that gastric disturbances are greatly aggravated if not induced by so doing. In every community there are those who are enthusiasts on the subject of pure and wholesome food, but whose mouths are in such a neglected condition that the air which passes through them is almost as polluted as that of a crowded tenement, and every mouthful of food swallowed carries with it to the stomach millions of bacteria. The almost entire failure of sterilizing articles of diet for patients in whose mouth chronic abscesses exist or whose teeth are covered with tartar mixed with bacteria and food in a state of decomposition need hardly be mentioned.—Boston Herald.

Four Kinds of Pupils.

The Talmud says there are four kinds of pupils—the sponge and the funnel, the strainer and the sieve. The sponge is he who takes up everything, and the funnel is he who taketh in at the one end and letteth out at that; the strainer is he that letteth go the wine and retaineth the dross, and the sieve is he that letteth go the bran and retaineth the fine flour. The student who begins at least to wish to belong to the last named class will not have been sent to college in vain.

He Liked It.

Wife—How do you like my new hat? Husband—The idea of paying big prices for— Wife—Big prices! Why, I made it myself. Husband—Um—yes—er—as I was saying, the idea of paying big prices for such monstrosities as these matters are showing! Now, your hat is a work of art. Looks as if it came from Paris. Beautiful, my dear!

Pin Money.

Mrs. Bricley—Reggie, dear, you know that $50 you gave me for a new hat? Mr. Bricley—Yes, dear. Mrs. Bricley—Well, I've saved the money. Mr. Bricley—But I see you're wearing a new hat. Mrs. Bricley—Yes; in order to economize, as you suggested, I kept the $50 and had the hat charged.—Lippincott's.

In Politics.

Politician—Congratulations, Sarah. You've elected. Sarah—with delight—Benevolence? Politician—What difference does that make?—Milwaukee Journal.

Truthfulness.

Truthfulness consists less in stating true facts than in conveying a true impression.—Stevenson.

The Gratitude Of Elderly People.

Goes out to whatever gives them ease, comfort and strength. Foley's Kidney Pills cure kidney and bladder diseases promptly, and give comfort and relief to elderly people. Sold by Johnson & Hill Co. and J. E. Daly.

To Loosen a Wick.

When a lamp wick is too large for the burner, and does not turn up readily, instead of sitting down the side to make it smaller, which makes the wickings, draws two or three threads from the middle of the wick.

Astronomical Note.

Student of astronomy—"I have discovered a new star, professor. Professor—What's she playing in, my boy?"

Law of Compensation.

That which we acquire with most difficulty we retain the longest.—Colton.

Dressed and Roasted.

It is with some women as it is with some birds; after they're dressed they are roasted.

OTTO'S DRUG STORE

IS BURGLARIZED

Some person or persons entered Otto's drug store on Thursday night and burglarized the place, going thru the safe and taking money and checks to the amount of about $150.00. Mr. Otto was unable to tell the exact amount, but knew it was in this neighborhood. The checks were subsequently discovered in an outhouse in the rear of the drug store, so that the loss to Mr. Otto was reduced to about seventy dollars.

The burglars entered the store thru a back window, prying it up until the catch broke. Then the safe was unlocked and the drawers containing the money and checks were taken out and carried away. Mr. Otto is not absolutely certain that he locked the safe Thursday night, but supposed that he did, as it is his custom to do so. If the safe was locked the party who entered it was either a family with the combination or else he is an expert at the business, as no trouble was apparently encountered in entering the safe and no damage was done to it.

One coincidence was the fact that Mr. and Mrs. Otto, who occupy rooms upstairs, were away from home that night. Other parties who sleep upstairs, however, were not disturbed by any unusual noise, so it is quite evident that whoever entered the store was quiet about it.

McDonald's Residence Entered.
R. A. McDonald's residence was also entered on Thursday night and a number of valuables taken, including a gold watch and ring belonging to Mrs. McDonald, and some other things. The family was away from home that night so that the burglar had full swing.

Altho the police have been working on the matter they have been unable to make anything out of it as yet.

Vesper Iron Works Re-organized.
The Vesper Safety Clevis and Malleable Iron Works has been re-organized, the new officers being: M. Ehrhart, president, W. H. Phillips, vice president, John Lepien, secretary and treasurer, and A. L. Bartholomew, M. E. Ehrhart, W. H. Phillips and John Lepien, directors.

The foundry is now in operation with about twenty-five men employed manufacturing the Vesper safety clevis and new patent clamp for preventing the spreading of rails on a curve.

Hardware Business Sold.
E. W. Lowell of Janesville has purchased the hardware business of George W. Parnell and took charge of the place last week. Mr. Lowell states that it is his intention to materially increase the stock and run a first class hardware store in every respect.

Corn Looking Good.
Corn throughout this part of the country is looking good, better, in fact, than it generally does, and should the frost hold off a bit longer, there is every indication that the yield will be pretty fair.

A new tile floor has been laid in the post office and the place now presents a much improved appearance.

WHERE DOES YOUR

LEGISLATOR STAND?

"When $90,000 is paid each year in the state of Wisconsin for the protection of cattle, and $7,000 for the maintenance of the State Board of Health, there is something wrong with the viewpoint of the Legislature," says a bulletin of the Wisconsin Anti-Tuberculosis association.

"We wish to call the attention of voters to the importance of electing men who understand the importance of public health, and who are as ready to fight for the cash value of human life as others do for forests, water power rights, railroad rate regulation or for the development and patronage of agricultural and dairy resources."

"We hope the voters of Wisconsin will now, before the primaries, get to work to elect men who understand the importance of public health, and who are as ready to fight for the cash value of human life as others do for forests, water power rights, railroad rate regulation or for the development and patronage of agricultural and dairy resources."

"The physical well-being of Wisconsin's people is vastly more important than any number of legal or ordinary political controversies."

"Why conserve natural resources and neglect the greatest of all resources—human life?"

"Why protect pigs and forget the children?"

"Elect men who understand that it is sound economy and 'good business' to save the lives of human beings, let alone the fact that it is humanitarian to conserve God's noblest creature—man!"

For September.

Now softened suns a mellow luster shed,
The laden orchards glow with tawny red;
On hazel boughs the clusters hang embrowned,
And with the hunting horn the fields resound.
—Old September Poem.

Well we should say so, and the mellow horn of Mr. Morgan will awake the morn, bidding us partner for the blue and crisp in which we labor for his royal nibs. The summer ended and the blower on the respite over and the money gone, and Rosefeller as we drill along, howling and hoping we are well and strong. The swashie journeyer will quit the shore, and the summer girl will leave up three or four conquests in puppy love she has around, and choose the one that is to go undrowned. The which selection from the litter horn of summer madness she will then suborn with things sufficient to unlock his eyes, and hurry homeward with the gasping prize.

The hasted tourist will return from France with hotel stickers stuck upon his pants, and barred out postal penny of his friends, will reap the penny of what he sends. They'll wait him up and down upon a rail, and alternately turn him head and tail, or whosoever they may have enjoy the views in Venice or the site of Troy.

The festive elf will blithely sniff and snort, and daffily tip up where the hair is short, and in the quiet even after-glow the quail will pipe his dulcet purrlo. The hold insurer will insure the more, and fill the planet with his dreadful roar, and each one betting he will not be lost, the autumn candidates will gallop past.

The new aggressive and the Democrat, the vanguarding that are standing pat, and in the midst of them, infant of heart, our Mr. Bryan on the water cart. A mow of issues, and a mass of men, and lo, a gallop bustle now and then, and not especially alarmed by it the trusts devising till the swarm has lit.

The man from Elba trying to come back,
And the poor consumer in his cul-de-sac.

Unknowing if the quaking earth portends
Death or the near approach, perhaps, of friends.

But howsoever and be it as may, the dread mosquito will have had its day, and joining Satan in its spectral growth, have made it real hold there for them both. The while the earthly rout of it swings upon the window screen, and drying clings to that post which, though wanting mortal fire, it still holds with its face against the wire.

The and first day of school will come to pass,
And the barefoot boy will hide out in the grass,
And by the time we've caught these malcontents,
The Orphen chase will look like thirty cents.

Mildly Fashion in her hobble skirt will stride the pavement with the men alert to cut her right side up again in case she should in time turn turtle any place. It does but thunder what the women wear, and how they stick on other people's hair, constrict their middles and constrain their toes and what importance they attach to clothes. But bless us, are they after all to blame, or had they been in these things quite the same if Mother Eve's first thought, as we suppose, had not been necessarily of clothes? Was it to be expected in her case that with a man somewhere upon the place she ever thought of anything at all but gowns, slippers, or perhaps a shawl?

But anyhow, the crawfish will have hold,
And the pumpkin shown the faintest trace of gold,
The sassafras will don a redder dress,
And the goats will crowd around the elder press.

Or prohibition or whatever will, here is a fountain that shall serve us still, a place of resting and a seat away out of the desert and the heat of day. A place of quiet and the shade of palms; of irrigation and the soothing balms that no reformer till the pelts embrace shall ever capture for a bathing place.

The hosts of labor will parade the street; which will remind us of a happy feat in arbitration from the olden days when Julius Caesar was a sort of craze. It is related of that ancient time that sweet September in the Roman clime was hot as blazes, and the union file could only march about a half a mile.

It wasn't anything at all, they say, to watch the mighty pagant get away, the music playing and the flags displayed, and see it suddenly duck for the shade. The gasping drummer with his soundless drum, the bronzed mechanica who perhaps had come a dozen squares, and in the frantic rout, age and apprentice with its tongue stuck out.

The faint impression the procession made on Roman capital for long dismayed the union leaders, when the serried ranks at times not even passed the Roman banks. And so it was when mighty Caesar came, and having found the populace aflame, he showed September from the seventh place along to ninth, which has remained the case. He merely interchanged it with July, but when he asked them how was that for high, they fairly inundated him with smiles, and have since been doing about twenty miles.

The autumn equinox will come around,
And Roosevelt, by that time eastward bound,
Will aid it in the making of such storms.

As they find necessary to a few reforms.

And then the son will turn still softer yet,
And the hold October, having duly set his places, and carefully put on his brakes,
Will see what sort of landing he can make.

London, July 2.

By H. M. Jackson.

I got my last yesterday! Wonderful! I was alone in the midst of thousands of people. The street was jammed with cabs, buses, trams, hansoms, carts, drays and bicycles, while the sidewalk was overflowing with pedestrians. Londoners are all very kind. They are willing to stop anywhere and tell you just where to go. The only real difficulty is, they are not acquainted with London. I did not discover this until I had doubled back on my fresh tracks twice. Then the profound realization came over me that I was lost. I was homeless too. The loneliest place in all the world is in a crowd, and two larger the crowd the worse it feels. Had I been out in a park, seated on a bench alone, it would not have mattered which of the numerous parks it was or which way was home, I should have sat quietly, and enjoyed it all until time to go home, but to be lost in a crowd is quite a different matter, and I found myself wanting to solve that puzzle at once. One told me "hit was over near Kensington somewhere," another that "it is not quite so illford, but that way," and a third was sure I could find it by taking a bus, but which bus he could not say. I asked a policeman as soon as he was at liberty and he said: "Go that way, turn to your left, then to your right and to your left again, and keep right on going." etc.

So far I have seen nothing in London to indicate any attempt on the part of those who laid out the city to follow geometrical lines in laying out the streets. One of our party has a little story regarding the origin of these streets that I can well believe although its authenticity may be questioned from lack of proof. It says that centuries ago when there was no city of London a camp of "ancestors" was pitched here. During a foggy night one of the bravest went voluntarily insane and ran many days all over the camp ground. The others took turns chasing him back and forth, in and out for nearly 1000 miles all told, when they captured him out where Buckingham palace now stands. Believing the insane man to have been possessed with the spirit of a new city, they, after the fog cleared away, laid out streets along where his tracks ran, and so we have modern London.

During my ramble this morning I saw the Bank of England building, covering more than four acres of ground. It stands at the corner of Needle St. and Thread St. Not far away is Poultry St. and a little farther on is Milk St.

A firm name printed on a sign is "Slowly & Co. Limited." "The Noisyway Sign" is a candy and flower store. One firm advertises to sell "Pale Ale," and a hardware store has a sign "Spoons and Forks." One window sign reads "Parveyor of Milk." How much more dignified such a title sounds than milkman or milkmaid!

There are no sky scrapers here, and this is fortunate as the speed limit of a "life" is so low that people could not afford the necessary time that would be required to go up to a forty-seventh story. I am on the fifth floor and am now spending the most of my time in the elevator. The speed of an elevator is not only regulated, but the number of passengers to a load is fixed, and the elevator boy is authorized to separate the best of friends rather than to take more than six at a time in a lift of the size of ours.

Today's "London Observer" comes out in favor of a new Buckingham palace for the new King and Queen. Not that the present palace is out of repair, but the interior is not quite modern and a King must have a comfortable house to come to after a hard day, reigning on an old throne, and his queen must have everything handy when she is "without a girl." They figure that a million dollars will start a pretty fair "cottage," and Parliament will be asked to make this appropriation as a starter and be ready to help out at any time in completing it.

Yesterday, we saw during a long drive in Hyde Park a large number of the London aristocracy on horseback enjoying the sunshine between showers. When I see the millions spent here by the "idle rich" who would be insulted were you to ask them their "occupation," and then see the poverty and squalor in a visit to South London and East Side, I am more and more impressed with the fact that revolutions are not yet concluded on this island. This one will no doubt be bloodless the "classes" in England are afraid of the aroused "masses" and will grant concessions as they find themselves obliged to do so. This city is growing now at the rate of 40,000 a year. Its population is already six millions. The rich are not growing in numbers; the poor are. It does not require a prophet to foresee a leveling process, already begun, that will change this social fabric and make it more tolerable for generations to follow.

Already the work is begun. The old age pension law is beginning in a small way the distribution of inherited wealth. It is the opening wedge. It is to be hoped that the Radical movement will not become too strenuous in its demands, and that the "mutualizing" of wealth may not be carried too far when the party gets into power as it certainly will at no very distant day. It is the question of wages here that causes great anxiety. Men are willing to work, but when their labor brings them hardly a scanty living, the condition becomes intolerable, and when they can not find a job at any price, well it is the old story.

If you think it possible for me to give you even a bare outline of all that is happening to me here in London, you must "get over it." We are using all the daylight hours and in part of the evening, and yet we shall go on to Paris without seeing all we had planned to see. We could spend a year in the British Museum and then be barely through the front door, and we could spend another year in the great National Art Gallery. In these places we are receiving lectures on the development of art in painting, sculpture and architecture.

Our large party is of course divided up into groups when at work. We meet only on trains and on board boats running between points of interest.

It rains nearly every day in London at this time of year. Our stay has been attended with wet and cold weather. Our overcoats are an everyday necessity. News from home says that in many parts of the United States people are suffering from heat. We can hardly imagine that. There is no dust to trouble us here, and London keeps her streets and sidewalks clean. The streets of London if placed in line would stretch out over 3000 miles. We have not traveled them all yet, but we have not seen so far a single street during our stay that is not macadamized and perfectly clean.

It will soon be the "Glorious Fourth," and London will hardly celebrate. I shall, however, I cannot remember an Independence Day without fire crackers and I am prepared.

September 12th.

—Depositors in the Savings Department of the First National Bank are reminded that the rules provide that all money deposited on or before the 13th, will draw interest from the first. This rule was made so that those receiving pay checks on the 10th would have time to deposit a part of them and receive just as much interest as though the deposit was made on the first. Money deposited now will draw interest on January 1.

This rule applies to new deposits also.

Will You Review the New Styles With Us?

PERHAPS this is a little early to talk clothes when we haven't even the promise of continued cool weather in sight, but the forehanded men, the men who lead in business or social life, don't wait until the eleventh hour to supply themselves. There are a lot of people who make it a point to see the new things as soon as they come in, and to our customers who want to know what the season's latest work is in men's fashions, we extend a cordial invitation to view our late arrivals in

SINCERITY COLTHES

We can't say enough about the tasteful styles that are being shown this Fall, but you may always be sure that SINCERITY CLOTHES lead in this respect. They depend upon their graceful, well balanced lines and upon the quality of materials and tailoring. It's a combination you can't beat. The patterns are very attractive indeed and we want the early risers to share our pleasure in looking over these new modes.

You will find the new Hats, Neckwear and Shirts just as attractive.
